

Five Main Pillars of Innovation and Development for School of Education

■ Pillar 1: Research -- Enhancing Research Capacities, Rediscovering Academic Essence

- Emphasizing various types of academic research
- Supporting research in teaching practices
- Engaging in interdisciplinary research projects
- Deepening the connection and application of teaching and research
- Encouraging faculty to form research communities
- Continuously strengthening the quality of the Journal of Educational Practice and Research
- Planning and organizing academic conferences to enhance scholarly exchange

■ Pillar 2: Teaching -- Demonstrating the Significance and Value of Collaborative Professionalism

- Collaborating between teaching professionals and other disciplines
- Developing interdisciplinary courses and teaching practices
- Sharing teaching experiences and wisdom
- Creating life stories of teaching practices
- Cultivating leadership talents among K-9 education stage teachers
- Encouraging future-oriented teaching aligned with global standards
- Highlighting teacher initiative and enhancing collective efficacy

■ Pillar 3: Learning -- Expanding the Power of ### Global Perspectives and Local Practice

- Encouraging students to participate in overseas study and transformative learning
- Encouraging student teachers to go abroad and broaden their horizons
- Encouraging graduate students to participate in the UCLA Summer Program
- Supporting teachers in short-term overseas study and research
- Promoting interdisciplinary learning and professional development among teachers
- Involving teachers in local, national, and international professional organizations
- Staying informed about trends and planning a series of educational symposiums

■ Pillar 4: Network -- Developing a Network

System of Collaborative Partnerships

- Establishing partnerships among departments within the College of Education
- Forging partnerships between the College of Education and the Teacher Education Center
- Building partnerships between the College of Education and K-12 schools
- Collaborating with the Teach for Taiwan(TFT)
- Collaborating with the government and non-governmental organizations
- Forming strategic alliances with educational organizations and associations
- Promoting international cooperation and related exchange activities

■ Pillar 5: Sustainability -- Driving Innovation

Diffusion, Promoting Sustainable Development

- Establishing a humane governance mechanism for education

- Developing a resilient and sustainable organization
- Participating in educational innovation projects and related activities
- Planning to establish an Education Innovation Center
- Promoting the education for sustainable development for K-12 and university levels
- Encouraging faculty to engage in research on sustainable development issues
- Advocating for sustainability education to expand influence